Overview

The standard residential solar photovoltaic panel size you'll see most often is based on a 60-cell configuration, typically measuring about 67 inches long by 40 inches wide. This size offers the best balance between power output, handling ease, and fitting standard roof dimensions. Roof Load Capacity is Rarely a Limiting Factor: Solar panels add only 3-4 pounds per square foot to roof load, well within the 20+ pound capacity of most residential roofs. The real constraints are typically usable roof space after accounting for required 3-foot setbacks and obstruction clearances. If you want to calculate how many solar panels you can put on your roof, you will obviously need to know the size of a solar panel. Example: 5kW solar system is comprised of 50 100-watt solar panels. In this blog, we'll break down the standard sizes of solar panels, explain how panel dimensions impact performance, and help you.
